

Gwen Venable

Gwen Venable is Executive Vice President of Communications for U.S. Poultry & Egg Association and is responsible for the communications, public relations and marketing activities for USPOULTRY, its family of organizations, and for the International Production & Processing Expo (IPPE).

Prior to joining USPOULTRY, Gwen was with Marel Stork Poultry Processing, a manufacturer of poultry equipment, and was responsible for the company's corporate marketing and public relations for the United States, Canada, Mexico, Latin America, and portions of South America.

Gwen holds an BBA and MBA from the University of Georgia, a certification of exhibition management, and has substantial executive-level communications, marketing, and association experience through various organizations.

Gwen grew up on a farm in Georgia. Her family helped raise broilers, as well as helped a neighboring farm with their egg-laying operation.