

Megan Haidet is the Deputy Director for the USDA Agricultural Marketing Service's Grants Division. She has been working in grant making for USDA for the past 7 years, including on programs related to specialty crops, pollinator health, farmers markets and local food systems. Most recently, the AMS Grants Division launched 4 new grant programs, including the Resilient Food System Infrastructure Program. Megan lives in Maryland with her family and enjoys tending to their small front yard garden.