

Rose Barbuto

SENIOR POLICY ADVISER

Rose Barbuto serves as Senior Policy Adviser at Farm Journal Foundation, supporting advocacy efforts with U.S. farmers, producers, and industry to advance global food security and foster economic development through agriculture. After working in Congress, Rose began her development career with the United Nations, where she worked in government relations and held field positions managing development and humanitarian programs, including as Director of the UN Emergency Ebola Response, overseeing response and recovery projects in Liberia and Sierra Leone. Rose previously served on the Agriculture and U.S. Government Relations teams at the Gates Foundation, where she helped coordinate the foundation's advocacy and policy strategies on agriculture and nutrition.
